

Garber Davidson

Garber Davidson is a lawyer with extensive experience in international economic development. Mr. Davidson entered into private practice in Baltimore, Maryland and subsequently joined the office of the General Counsel at USAID.

Mr. Davidson was a Senior Foreign Service officer at USAID where he served both overseas and in Washington as an agency lawyer. He also served as a Deputy Mission Director in Bolivia where he managed a portfolio of over $100,000,000 in programs related to strengthening of democratic institutions, rural health, and agricultural development.

Mr. Davidson served as the USAID Vice President on the American Foreign Service Association's governing board

Mr. Davidson retired from the U.S. government in 1996, and began work with an international consulting firm. He is a Senior Associate at Checchi and Company Consulting, Inc. which oversees and implements contracts for USAID, the World Bank and other international institutions. Mr. Davidson specializes in programs in legal reform and deals with primarily USAID projects that promote rule of law and administration of justice.

Mr. Davidson is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and the School of Law at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He is a returned Peace Corps Volunteer from Ethiopia.